PLANS FOR BIG RESERVOIR

Belief That Utah Light & Railway Company Still Adheres to Old Project.

A real estate transfer which was consummated here yesterday is construed to mean that the large storage reservoir contemplated by the Utah Light & Railway company, at the head of Ogden canyon, will be built, over the protests of a certain element who bitterly opposed the proposition when the power people applied to the county commissioners for the right to change the roadway to make room for the big project. The Utah Light & Railway company has purchased the Ririe estate, consisting of 190 acres of land and considered the most valuable of the entire site of 2,500 acres. The price paid was $11,000.

This land deal, it is understood, has been on between the Power company and the heirs to the Ririe estate since last August. It is believed that the promoters of the large reservoir intend to carry out their original plan and that the dam will be built. This dam will cover 2,500 acres and will be used to conserve the waters of the four forks of the Ogden river. Ogden city will then be supplied with power for all purposes and many thousands of acres of land will be placed under cultivation, the water for the irrigation of this land will come from the reservoir.

When the project of the Utah Light & Railway company for the construction of the dam became known, the county commissioners for the right to change certain roadways which interfered with the company's plans a number of meetings were held throughout the country, some in opposition to the project and others in favor of it. The commissioners announced that they were in sympathy with the movement as it would benefit the county greatly through bringing into cultivation a large amount of arid land, to say nothing of the benefits to be derived by the increase in the facilities for producing power. However, the opposition to the project became so strong that the Power company withdrew its application for a change of the roadways and it was thought that the matter had received its final quietus.

This now would appear to have been a premature conclusion. With the land purchased from the Ririe estate, the company owns about 500 acres of land desired and it is expected that its intention is to buy the Ririe estate. Should there be any attempt to hold the company up for a fancy price, it is said it will begin condemnation proceedings and acquire the land in that way.

The estimate of cost attached to the erection of the dam is said to be about $1,500,000. E. W. Wade, commercial agent for the Utah Light & Power company, stated yesterday that the purchase of the Ririe land was for an addition to the present retaining reservoir which much be increased to supply water for the present season. Investigation shows, however, that the raise proposed to the old reservoir only covers seventy acres, while the purchase includes 190 acres and extends far into the property wanted for the large storage dam and in addition to this some of the roads in question are on this property.

It is believed that the small dam will be enlarged at once and in the meantime purchases of the land wanted for the larger project will be made and where this cannot be done condemnation proceedings will be filed and the land acquired at prices set by the courts.

MORE CITED FOR CONTEMPT

Glasmann and His Editor Must Appear in Court—Also Halverson Again.

The fight that has been on in Ogden for some time between certain citizens and city officers took a new turn yesterday when J. N. Kimball, one of the attorneys for the plaintiff in the action of J. D. Skeen against Councilman William J. D. Skeen, filed in the district court an affidavit on contempt against the Standard Publishing company, William Glasmann and J. Frank Francis, the manager and editor of the Glasmann papers. The parties accused are cited to appear in court on April 5. The papers in these proceedings were hardly filed before Attorney R. S. Farnsworth, who is also attorney for Ogden's ex-mayor, filed contempt proceedings against District Attorney George Halverson, who is also cited to appear in court April 5, and show cause why he should not be punished for contempt.

Glasmann, in his papers of Feb. 25 and 26, at which time the case against Councilman William Craig was before the court, published an attack on District Attorney Halverson, who represented the state in the prosecution. These articles are a part of the contempt proceedings filed by Mr. Kimball.

The charges are as follows: That the publication of said articles in said newspapers interfered with the due and regular proceedings of said court and of the rights of the accused and the interests of the parties thereto, and prejudiced the rights and interests of the accused and were published by the said Standard Publishing company, William Glasmann and Frank Francis, with intent to prejudice the court and jury in said cause, and affiant is informed and believes, and therefore alleges, that the same did so prejudice said jury and were in violent contempt of this court.

Wherefore affiant prays that this court issue an order to show cause why said Standard Publishing company, William Glasmann and Frank Francis should not be punished as and for contempt of this court in composing, circulating and publishing the articles aforesaid or for such other order as may be met and prayer in the premises.

The affiant in the proceedings against Mr. Halverson is Henry Wessler, whose name was also attached to the accusation against Mr. Halverson when he was charged with derelict duty. The reasons for this action are practically the same as were given in the case thrown out of court by Judge Ritchie. In the present case, but one case is cited, that of the state against Joseph Kendall, accused of murder. Failure on the part of the district attorney to file the information against Kendall within the thirty days prescribed by law is sentenced to fifteen years in the state prison for killing his wife.

EXTEND FREMONT CANAL

Change of River's Course Makes Renewal of Big Ditch Necessary at Once.

The Fremont canal, which is the source from which the town of Warren gets its water, is about to have an extension of one-half mile built to it at a cost of about $5,000. This course has become necessary on account of the river having changed its course during the past three years so that the head gates to the canal are high and dry. The canal will be extended to a point near the sugar factory bridge. The surveys have all been made and the contract let to Lyman Skeen of Ogden, who will commence work tomorrow with a large force of men and teams, so as to complete the canal in time for use during the coming irrigation season. The building of the extension will necessitate the construction of headgates and considerable pile driving at the factory bridge. There has been let to Ben Chadwick. When the river first changed its course it did not affect the canal, but each year the channel was cut deeper until at the present time it is impossible to get water up to the mouth of the canal. The waterway is owned by the Utah Light & Railway company, which has ordered the work done at once.

County School Board.

The county board of education let the contracts for the plans and specifications of the new school buildings at Hooper and Plain City to P. L. Woods and J. A. Smith, each of whom will prepare the plans for one building. The buildings committee recommended that the surplus school property in Hooper be disposed of, and the same was adopted. On the recommendation of the superintendent the board decided that there would be no mid-year entries at the school unless their names are included in the census. This has reference to beginners desiring to enter the schools at mid-year. The enrollment report of Superintendent W. N. Peterson showed an increase of 33 since the beginning of the school year in September last.

To Manufacture Lamp.

The Hydro-Carbon Light company is making extensive preparations for the manufacture of its new kerosene lamp. At the present time a model is being made in Chicago, after which the contract for the machinery will be let. C. F. Whipple, manager of the company, has just completed a trip to all the eastern states, and the contract will either be let in Michigan, or in Chicago, where he is at the present time.

clerk in a business employing 1,000 men. Before he had reached the age of 30 years he was managing several mines for Frederick Schlessinger, the "Mill-waukee iron king." These mines were bankrupted by the panic of 1893, but through cool-headedness and 18-karat grit Mr. Cole kept the mines in operation for six weeks after their failure and repaid the men who had stayed with him through the difficulty.

Mr. Cole has made twelve bonanzas of as many mines during his mining career. These dozen mines brought their owners a total of $101,415,000.

Daniel Guggenheim was born into the mining and smelting business. He is the leading spirit of a family of seven brothers who have gained world-wide fame as smelting and mining kings. A review of his career is a history of the mining progress of the west. He is president of the American Smelting and Refining company, with plants all over the western country. Smelting plants are operated by this company in Utah, Colorado, Mexico, Montana, California and Oregon. Mr. Guggenheim is at the head of the exploration bearing his name. This corporation is reaching out for mines in every part of the country. Mr. Guggenheim has employed his time with wonderful success.

John Hays Hammond was born March 31, 1855, in San Francisco, Cal. He became familiar with gold mining during his boyhood days. He took a course in the Sheffield scientific school of Yale, and to Denver, Colorado, Saxony, where he studied in the Royal school of mines. Upon returning to this country he was employed by the United States geological survey to examine the gold mines of California. He went to Mexico in 1882 as superintendent of silver mines at Sonora. He resigned this position to accept one as consulting engineer of the Grass valley gold mines in California. He held similar positions with the Union Iron works in San Francisco and the Continental and Southern Pacific railroad afterward.

Mr. Hammond's reputation as a mining expert has brought him offers from large companies in all parts of the United States, Mexico and South America. He was associated with the late Cecil Rhodes in African mines. He was during this time consulting engineer of the Consolidated Gold Fields of South Africa, the British South Africa company and the Rhandfontein Estate Gold Mining company, and became conspicuous during the Jamieson raid and other troubles in the Transvaal.

Mr. Hammond is a mining writer of note. He is author of many dissertations on mining and appearing in the last two editions of the Encyclopedia Britannica.
